

My COVID-19 Kindness Story

My neighbors, Mr and Mrs. Landis, are very kind people and here is a story about them. During this pandemic, my brother ran to my neighbor's house without asking and knocked on their door. When he did this they answered the door and did not mind that he was there. They welcomed him in without minding and they were so kind to him. When my brother walked in, they acted like it was someone that they were expecting. They offered him food and a drink and they did it with no hesitation. They made my brother feel like he was at home. They made my brother feel like an older person even though my little brother is 3 years old. When my parents walked in, they saw that my little brother was sitting at their dining table with apple slices and some apple juice. My little brother was sitting there chatting with them as he ate apple slices and drank apple juice. He was sitting at their dining table being treated like a very important person. He was being treated very well even though he had just waltzed over to their house without asking and made himself at home. This just was so kind of my neighbors to even let him in their house and then be treated like a family member. My neighbors are very kind to everyone in every way possible. My brother is just one of the few that gets treated like this. The way these people talk to you makes you feel like you are a very special person. I wrote about these people because they deserve to be honored.

By William Smith